WHAT IS DEMOSPLASH ?

Demosplash is the largest demoparty in North America, catering both to newcomers to the demoscene as well as established artists.

Demos are live-rendered audiovisual compositions that focus on pushing the limits of the hardware, often historical computing platforms on which real-time rendering can be quite challenging. Unlike many other parties, we strive to show demos live on original hardware as much as possible, offering a viewing experience that can't be matched through emulators or recordings.

Demosplash 2012 attracted over 75 attendees to 18 hours of demo screenings, talks, open retro gaming, and competitions. We accepted entries from both local and international artists in both general demo and still artwork categories. The demoparty was streamed live to over 100 remote viewers through SceneSat.

Demosplash 2013 will feature a keynote presentation from Peter "FRaNky" Smets, an organizer of Revision, one of the largest European demoparties, as well as workshops, competitions, and demoscreenings. This year we are also proud to announce a partnership with VIA Pittsburgh integrating Demosplash with a wide range of other new media events.

WHO WE ARE

The Carnegie Mellon University Computer Club is a group of students and alumni dedicated to advocating for computing, educating about and preserving historical computing, and producing services for our campus community since 1978. The club has been active in the demoscene since 2011.
